Circular Quay & the Rocks

Seamlessly combines the historic with the exuberantly modern. Major sights and great eating and drinking.

SYDNEY HARBOUR BRIDGE

City Centre & Haymarket

Upmarket shopping, eating and sightseeing, with raffish Chinatown providing the yin to the CBD's yang.

Darling Harbour & Pyrmont

Unashamedly touristy, Darling Harbour dazzles with waterside bars, restaurants and museums. Pyrmont maintains historic vibes.

Newtown & the Inner West

Students, bookshops, cafes and pubs: Newtown and the inner-west 'burbs are Sydney's bohemian zone.

Surry Hills & Darlinghurst

Sydney's hippest and gayest neighbourhoods are also home to its most interesting dining and bar scene.

Paddington

A byword for eastern-suburbs elegance, this is Sydney's fashion and art heartland.

Kings Cross & Potts Point

The Cross is still gloriously down at heel, the antidote to which is refined, leafy Potts Point.

Bondi, Coogee & the Eastern Beaches

Sydney sheds its suit and tie and chills on the eastern beaches. Bondi is the biggest and best.

Manly

The surf's good, the bars and eateries appeal, and it's the gateway to the beautiful Northern Beaches.
