GREENDEX

GOING GREEN

The Big Apple is striving to become a Green Apple, and environmental awareness has never been higher. Restaurants flagged as green in this book usually buy local (typically from the fertile Hudson Valley), and many go organic. Hotels listed here ask guests to reuse linens and towels, and some have rooms with cork floors, low-flow showers, and energy efficient fixtures. For more tips about sustainable NYC, turn to the Getting Started chapter (p27). For more information about green tourism and Lonely Planet, see lonelyplanet.com/responsibletravel.
