GreenDex

Tourism can give, and tourism can take away. The South is fiercely proud of its historic treasures, and more often than not, sustainability means historical and cultural preservation. In this book, we skip the national motels and chain restaurants for places that best help local communities preserve the culture, history and environment of the regions we cover. From 175-year-old restaurants to inns run by the same family for generations, almost all of our listings preserve a piece of history in the South. You'll find several locations with an additional commitment to sustainability marked in the text, and listed below.

We might not have it 100% right yet, so that's why we're including you – our readers – in the process of helping us figure it out. Visit us at www.lonelyplanet.com/responsibletravel and tell us what you think makes a location “green.”
