Why Go?

Caught between the ocean and the Andes, Chile's Norte Chico (Little North), is unique unto itself. La Serena, a coastal colonial capital and the region's largest city, is a must-see for anybody visiting. From there, move on to the mystical Elqui Valley, the verdant home to Chile's pisco producers, new-age communes and cutting-edge observatories. Further north are some amazing national parks, a trendy little beach hideaway, and kilometers of uncharted coastline just waiting for you to set up camp or charge out for an afternoon surf. Wildlife lovers won't want to miss the playful penguins of Reserva Nacional Pingüino de Humboldt and Parque Nacional Pan de Azúcar. And high in the Andes, the seldom-visited Parque Nacional Nevado Tres Cruces is a great place to spot vicuña and flamingos. Despite its diminutive moniker, the Little North is just a bit bigger than most people thought.

When to Go

La Serena

Jan–Feb Chileans on vacation storm the beaches, making hotel options scarcer and sights crowded.

Jul–Aug Temperatures drop dramatically at night but days are hot and blissfully free of crowds.

Sep–Nov Catch the storied sight of the flowering desert, best in Parque Nacional Llanos de Challe.
