

South Coast

Includes ➔

Guayaquil.....	268
Ruta Spondylus	284
Puerto López.....	284
Parque Nacional Machalilla	287
Montañita	290
Salinas	294
Playas.....	296
Reserva Ecológica Manglares Churute ..	297
Machala	297
Zaruma.....	300

Best Places to Eat

- ➔ Pique & Pase (p279)
- ➔ Bellitalia (p286)
- ➔ Delfín Mágico (p289)
- ➔ Tiki Limbo (p293)

Best Places to Stay

- ➔ Mansion del Rio (p278)
- ➔ Hostería Mandála (p285)
- ➔ Balsa Surf Camp (p292)
- ➔ Samaí Lodge (p290)
- ➔ La Posada del Sueco (p296)

Why Go?

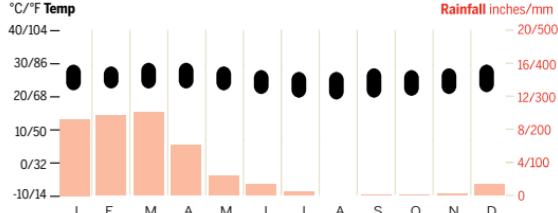

Wide sandy beaches, lush nature reserves and biologically rich islands are just a few of the attractions of Ecuador's southern coastal region. For wildlife watching, outdoor activities or just relaxing on the beach, this is a great place to be.

Gateway to the region is Guayaquil, a buzzing, tropical city that has gone through a remarkable transformation in recent years. West of there lies the so-called Ruta Spondylus. You can watch migrating humpback whales or visit colonies of blue-footed boobies off Puerto López, join the surf and party crowd in Montañita, or unwind in peaceful seaside enclaves like Ayampe and Olón.

South of Guayaquil is mostly banana country, featuring miles and miles of oro verde (green gold). Machala celebrates its banana legacy, and it's also the entry point to the rustic, mangrove-covered island of Jambelí, and a key stop-over en route to Zaruma, a picturesque colonial town in the mountains.

When to Go

Guayaquil

Jan–May The rainy season when the coast is hot, humid and sunny, with occasional heavy rains.

Jun–Dec The dry season is cooler and more overcast. Humpback whales visit June to September.

End Dec–Apr This is generally when Ecuadorians visit coastal resorts.

South Coast Highlights

- ➊ Get up close and personal with nesting boobies and other birdlife on Isla de la Plata (p287).
- ➋ Frolic in the waves and sip fruity cocktails to tropical beats at surf mecca Montañita (p290).
- ➌ Look for wildlife on hiking trails through lush forest near Dos Mangas (p292).
- ➍ Stroll the malecón, dine in Ecuador's best restaurants and join the nightlife in Las Peñas in Guayaquil (p268).
- ➎ Breathe in the cool air and spectacular views around Zaruma (p300).
- ➏ Spot massive humpback whales (p289) on their annual migration, breaching only meters away from your boat in Parque Nacional Machalilla.
- ➐ Slow down and relax in peaceful seaside villages like Olón (p290) and Ayampe (p289).

