©Lonely Planet Publications Pty Ltd

Kosovo

Includes **>

Pristina731
Peja (Peć)735
Prizren

Best Places to Eat

- Tiffany (p734)
- Renaissance (p734)
- Soma Book Station (p734)
- Art Design (p737)

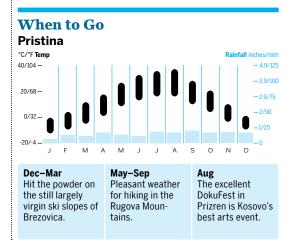

Best Places to Stay

- Swiss Diamond Hotel (p733)
- Dukagjini Hotel (p736)
- Driza's House (p737)
- Han Hostel (p733)

Why Go?

Europe's newest country, Kosovo is a fascinating land at the heart of the Balkans rewarding visitors with welcoming smiles, charming mountain towns, incredible hiking opportunities and 13th-century domed Serbian monasteries – and that's just for starters. It's perfectly safe to travel here now, but despite this, Kosovo remains one of the last truly off-thebeaten-path destinations in Europe.

Kosovo declared independence from Serbia in 2008, and while it has been diplomatically recognised by 112 countries, there are still many nations that do not accept Kosovan independence, including Serbia. The country has been the recipient of massive aid from the international community, particularly the EU and NATO, which effectively run the entity politically and keep peace between the ethnic Albanian majority and the minority Serbs. Barbs of its past are impossible to miss, however: roads are dotted with memorials to those killed in 1999, while NATO forces still guard Serbian monasteries.

Kosovo Highlights

• Prizren's old town (p737) Discovering the picturesque, mosquestudded streets of Prizren's charming old quarter and getting a breathtaking view from the fortress.

C Rugova Mountains (p736) Trekking around the stunning landscapes of Kosovo's most impressive mountains, which rise to the west of Peja.

Operation of the set of the se

(p736) Breathing deep at Peja's Saturday Cheese Market inside the town's colourful bazaar.

Visoki Dečani Monastery (p732) Taking in gorgeous frescoes and then buying monk-made wine and cheese at this serene 14th-century Serbian monastery.

5 Bear Sanctuary Pristina (p731) Visiting the rescued bears living in excellent conditions at this wonderful lakeside sanctuary that's just a short trip from the capital.

Pristina (p731) Exploring Europe's youngest country through its plucky and idiosyncratic capital city, and enjoying its excellent dining and nightlife.

PRISTINA

2 038 / POP 211,000

Pristina (pronounced 'prish-tee-na') is a city changing fast and one that feels full of optimism and potential, even if its traffic-clogged streets and mismatched architectural styles don't make it an obviously attractive place. Far more a provincial town than great city, Pristina makes for an unlikely national capital, and yet feels more cosmopolitan than the capitals of many larger Balkan nations due to the number of foreigners working here: the UN