WRITER THANKS

Adam Karlin

Mahalo: Alayna Kilkuskie, my best Big Island contact and lobster night diving partner; Alexander for putting me on this assignment, co-authors Luci and Loren for all their help, and of course, the usual cast of Hawaii characters who make the Big Island one of my favorite places on Earth. And finally, and as always: Rachel and Sanda, for coming out and reminding me paradise is better with family.

Loren Bell

The biggest mahalo are reserved for the forces that created this adventurer's playground – be it Pele or geophysical processes, or both – and the stewards who protect it. The intense beauty of Hawai'i is well reflected in the many people who helped me along the way. But the one who deserves highest praise is Kari. Having you by my side is the best part of all of this – even if it sometimes seems I'm too busy to notice. I always notice.

Luci Yamamoto

Mahalo to Alex Howard for an opportunity to explore my home island again. To island residents, both locals and transplants, thanks for talking story and sharing your lives with me. To David Bock, Derek Kurisu and Bobby Camara, I appreciate your singular insights about Hawai'i. Most of all, endless thanks to my parents, wonderful assistants and true kama'aina.

OUR STORY

A beat-up old car, a few dollars in the pocket and a sense of adventure. In 1972 that's all Tony and Maureen Wheeler needed for the trip of a lifetime – across Europe and Asia overland to Australia. It took several months, and at the end – broke but inspired – they sat at their kitchen table writing and stapling together their first travel guide, Across Asia on the Cheap. Within a week they'd sold 1500 copies. Lonely Planet was born.

Today, Lonely Planet has offices in Franklin, London, Melbourne, Oakland, Dublin, Beijing and Delhi, with more than 600 staff and writers. We share Tony's belief that 'a great guidebook should do three things: inform, educate and amuse'.

OUR WRITERS

Adam Karlin

Kailua-Kona & the Kona Coast, Kohala & Waimea Adam is a Lonely Planet author based out of wherever he is. Born in Washington DC and raised in the rural Maryland tidewater, he has been exploring the world and writing about it since he was 17. It's a blessedly interesting way to live one's life. Also, it's good fun.

Loren Bell

Hawai'i Volcanoes National Park, Ka'u, Mauna Kea & Saddle Road, Puna When Loren first backpacked through Europe, he was in the backpack. That memorable experience corrupted his 6-month-old brain, ensuring he would never be happy sitting still. His penchant for peregrination has taken him from training dogsled teams in the Tetons to chasing gibbons in the jungles of Borneo – with only brief pauses for silly 'responsible' things like earning degrees. When he's not demystifying destinations for Lonely Planet, Loren writes about science and conservation news. He base-camps in the Rocky Mountains where he probably spends too much time on his mountain bike and skis.

Luci Yamamoto

Hamakua Coast, Hilo A fourth-generation native of Hawai'i, Luci is unfazed by rain, pidgin and long Hawaiian words. When she left law to be a writer, she heard the old adage: write what you know. For Lonely Planet she thus targeted the Hawaiian Islands. To her surprise, her kama'aina background was only a launchpad – and she discovered extraordinary new people and places on her home island. Currently a writer, editor, Iyengar yoga teacher, and blogger (www.yogaspy.com) in Vancouver, she regularly returns to Hawai'i and recharges her local 'cred.' Even more than papayas and poke, she loves the Big Island's aloha spirit.
