Why Go?

Goa is like no other state in India. It may be the Portuguese colonial influence, the endless beaches, the glorious whitewashed churches or the relaxed culture of susegad – a uniquely Goan term that translates loosely to ‘laid-backness’ and is evident in all aspects of daily life and the Goan people themselves.

But Goa is far more than its old-school reputation as a hippie haven or its relatively new status as a package-holiday beach getaway. Goa is as beautiful and culturally rich as it is tiny and hassle-free, so you can go birdwatching in a butterfly-filled forest, marvel at centuries-old cathedrals, venture out to white-water waterfalls or meander the capital’s charming alleyways. Add a dash of Portuguese-influenced food and architecture, infuse with a colourful blend of religious traditions, pepper with parties, and you’ve got a heady mix that makes Goa easy to enjoy and extremely hard to leave.

When to Go

Goa (Panaji)

Early Nov Post-monsoon, the shacks and beach huts are up but the crowds are still down.

Early Dec Festivals, Christmas spirit and great weather, before the peak prices and crowds.

Mar Carnival and Easter celebrations as the season winds down.

MAIN POINTS OF ENTRY

Dabolim Airport handles all flights, Margao (Madgaon) Railway Station is the state's largest and best connected; Mapusa, Panaji and Margao bus terminals for long-distance rides.

Food & Drink

Goan cuisine is a tantalising fusion of Portuguese and South Indian flavours. Goans tend to be hearty meat and fish eaters, and fresh seafood is a staple, as is the quintessential Goan lunch 'fish-curry-rice': fried mackerel steeped in coconut, tamarind and chilli sauce. Traditional dishes include vindaloo (fiery dish in a marinade of vinegar and garlic) or xacuti (a spicy chicken or meat dish cooked in red coconut sauce). For dessert try the layered bebinca.

The traditional Goan drink is feni, a double-distilled fiery liquor made from the cashew fruit or palm toddy.

DON'T MISS

There's little chance of missing the beach – much of Goa's 100km of Arabian Sea coastline has some spectacular stretches. Dining on fresh seafood at one of the many beach shacks up and down the coast is a must. Goa has a fascinating colonial history that also shouldn't be missed: set aside some time to explore evocative Panaji (Panjim), Old Goa, Quepem and Chandor.
