Why Go?

The land that has turned its lifestyle into a designer accessory, Italy is one of Europe's great seducers. Ever since the days of the 18th-century Grand Tour, travellers have been falling under its spell and still today it stirs strong emotions. The rush of seeing the Colosseum for the first time or cruising down Venice's surreal canals are feelings you'll remember for life.

Of course, Italy is not all about Michelangelo masterpieces and frescoed churches. There's also the food, imitated the world over, and a landscape that boasts beautiful Alpine peaks, stunning coastlines and remote, silent valleys. So if the cities don't do it for you, if their noise, heat and chaos start getting to you – as they get to many locals – change gear and head out to the country for a taste of the sun-kissed slow life.

Connections

Milan and Venice are northern Italy's two main transport hubs. From Milan, trains run to cities across Western Europe, including Barcelona, Paris, Zürich and Vienna. Venice is better placed for Eastern Europe, with rail connections to Ljubljana, Zagreb, Belgrade and Budapest. You can also pick up ferries in Venice for Corfu, Iguomenitsa and Patra. Down the east coast, there are ferries from Bari to various Greek ports, as well as to Bar and Dubrovnik. At the other end of the country, Genoa has ferries to Barcelona and Tunis.

ITINERARIES

One week

A one-week whistle-stop tour of Italy is enough to take in some of the country's main cities. After a couple of days exploring Venice's unique canal-scape, head south to Florence, Italy's great Renaissance city. Two days is not long there but it'll whet your appetite for the artistic and architectural treasures that await in Rome.

Two weeks

After the first week, continue south for some sea and southern passion. Spend a day dodging traffic in Naples, a day investigating the ruins at Pompeii and a day or two admiring the Amalfi Coast. Then backtrack to Naples for a ferry to Palermo and the gastronomic delights of Sicily – or perhaps Cagliari and Sardinia's magical beaches, depending on your preference.

Essential Food & Drink

- » Pizza Two varieties: Roman, with a thin crispy base; and Neapolitan, with a higher, more doughy base. The best are always prepared in a forno a legna (wood-fired oven).
- » Gelato Popular ice-cream flavours include fragola (strawberry), nocciola (hazelnut) and stracciatella (milk with chocolate shavings).
- » Wine Ranges from big-name reds such as Piedmont's Barolo to light whites from Sardinia and sparkling prosecco from the Veneto.
- » Caffè Join the locals for a morning cappuccino or post-lunch espresso, both taken standing at a bar.
