DRIVING IN NEW ENGLAND 120

OUR WRITERS

AMY C BALFOUR

Amy has hiked, biked and paddled her way across the US. Raised in the South, she's been visiting the Outer Banks since childhood and has backpacked along the Appalachian Trail in the Great Smokies. In New Hampshire she explored the White Mountains and tackled Mt Monadnock for the first time. She has authored 26 guidebooks for Lonely Planet and has written for Backpacker, Redbook, Southern Living and the Washington Post.

GREGOR CLARK

Gregor fell in love with Vermont at age 16, while working as a summer conservation volunteer in the state's southwestern corner. His long-held dreams of moving to the Green Mountain State came to fruition in 1997, and he's been here ever since. A lifelong polyglot with a degree in Romance languages, Gregor has written regularly for Lonely Planet since 2000, with a focus on Europe and Latin America. He lives with his wife and two daughters in Middlebury, Vermont.

NED FRIARY

Ned's college days were spent in Amherst, and traveling around his old stomping grounds always feels like a homecoming of sorts.

He now lives on Cape Cod and has explored the region from one end to the other, searching out the best lobster roll, canoeing the marshes, and hiking and cycling the trails.

PAULA HARDY

The British half of an American-British couple, Paula spends a lot of time hopping across the pond, torn between the bright lights of London town and Boston, where weekend in the New England countryside is a near-weekly activity. Research has taken her way off the beaten path into Connecticut's dairy barns, lobster shacks (yum!) and wine-tasting rooms, and Rhode Island's tiny East Bay villages and breezy Block Island cycling trails – the lasting memories of Baggio defeats and Mudslide sundowners won't be easily forgotten.

CAROLINE SIEGEL

Caroline's relationship with New England began when she briefly lived in Boston. Subsequent trips to the region yielded countless hikes in the Green Mountains, excessive beer and cheese tasting in Vermont, and a profound obsession with blueberry pie and apple-cider doughnuts. She also believes that one of the best ways to embrace the area is to explore its ubiquitous lakes and waterways by boat. These days, she visits New England as often as she can.

MARA VORHEES

Born and raised in St Clair Shores, Michigan, Mara traveled the world (if not the universe) before finally settling in the Hub. She spent several years pushing papers and tapping keys at Harvard University, but she has since embraced the life of a full-time travel writer, covering destinations as diverse as Russia and Belize. She lives in a pink house in Somerville, Massachusetts, with her husband, two kiddies and two kitties. She is often seen eating doughnuts in Union Sq and pedaling her bike along the Charles River. The pen-wielding traveler is the author of Lonely Planet's Boston guide, among other titles. Follow her adventures online at www.havetwinswilltravel.com.
