

San Carlos, Isla Solentiname & the Río San Juan

Includes ➔

San Carlos .....	244
San Miguelito .....	246
Isla Solentiname ....	247
Refugio de Vida Silvestre
Los Guatuzos.....	251
Río San Juan.....	251

Best Wildlife- Spotting

- ➔ Río Papaturro (p251)
- ➔ Aguas Frescas (p256)
- ➔ Islas Solentiname (p247)
- ➔ Río Indio (p257)
- ➔ San Miguelito (p246)

Best Places to Stay

- ➔ Sábalos Lodge (p253)
- ➔ Hotel La Comunidad
(p249)
- ➔ Río Indio Lodge (p258)
- ➔ Refugio Bartola (p256)
- ➔ Hotel Sábalos (p253)

Why Go?

You could roam the globe for decades and it would be tough to top what you are about to experience here. This is a place where an enlightened priest once mingled with transcendental artists on forgotten island utopias. Where the beautiful teenage daughter of a Spanish conquistador stared down an on-rushing armada of British pirates. It's a haven for migratory birds, ranchers and fishermen where the monkeys howl, alligators cruise the black water, and enormous 500-year-old trees bangled in delicate orchids shelter fluorescent fingernail-sized tree frogs and carnivorous jaguars under one canopy.

It's also a place thousands of travelers simply pass through on their way to Costa Rica, ignoring the sweet Archipiélago de Solentiname, mythic Río San Juan and spectacular Reserva Biológica Indio-Maíz. Huge mistake. Spend some time and money. Explore. Take it all in. These are the places you imagined when you booked your ticket. This is why you travel.

When to Go

Dry season in the Río San Juan runs from February to April with more sunshine and shrinking pools of water concentrating migratory waterfowl in Los Guatuzos. From mid-September to October it's possible to hook huge tarpon in the Caribbean Sea at the mouth of the Río Indio and there is the best bird-watching around San Miguelito. And in November, dancers and artists from all over the country descend on San Carlos for the Río San Juan's biggest party – the Carnival Acuático.

San Carlos, Islas Solentiname & the Río San Juan Highlights

1 Spot migratory birds on a tour through the wetlands and humid forests of San Miguelito (p246)

2 Hike, swim and stargaze in the peaceful Islas Solentiname (p247)

3 Dine on sweet and giant shrimp on a riverside balcony in Boca de Sábalos (p252)

4 Scale the imposing Spanish fortress in El Castillo (p254)