Marc Bennetts

Thanks to Tanya and Masha the Basha for meeting me in the playground when I came back. Greetings to everyone who helped me on my travels, including above all the many friendly people of Manzherok. Thanks also again to Sayat and Kayrat in Kosh-Agach and Minsalim in Tobolsk. No thanks at all to the Altai's many ticks, but much gratitude to the inventors of amoxicillin.

Greg Bloom

The biggest thanks go to pop, who rolled with me (literally) for four weeks, taking many vodka shots for the team. Dad, you asked for an adventure, you got it! Thanks to predecessor Robert Reid for engaging and passing along many tips. On the road, shouts go out to Daria and Bryan in Khabarovsk, to Leo for various tips, to Misha in Komsomolsk, to Lera and Alyona in Kamchatka and, of course, to my homeboy Christian in Yakutsk.

I would like to thank my wife, Masha Makeeva, for enduring my absences and accompanying me on some of the Golden Ring trips. Also, many thanks to Simon Richmond for guidance and patience, to Mara Vorhees for writing an excellent chapter for the previous edition, which was very easy to update this time around, and to Ekaterina Koldeyeva for tips on Yaroslavl.

Tamara Sheward

The people to thank would easily fill a platskart wagon, when I have but the space of a kupe cabin. In brief, hugely grateful vodka-/cognac-clinks to Barents Observer journo, Elena in Petrozavodsk, the morzhi of Murmansk, Grigori at the Ametist, the human whirlwind Kseniya, Apatity's Alpha-Plus channel for my five minutes of (awkward) fame, Ridel, and Nikolai for the 6am sto gramma. Thanks beyond compare go out to the always-awesome Dasha Khyutte and new besties Sergey and Viki. Dušan, my beautiful blizanac: volim tvoj glava!

Regis St Louis

Thanks go to Simon, Greg and Leonid for helpful tips on the Caucasus; Vlad and Denis at Wild Russia for Elbrus input; Bruce Talley for Sochi insight; Dmitry Mirzonov for good coffee and a lift to Novorossiysk; and the two babushkas who helped me find my way in Rostov. Thanks to all the great Russians I met on trains, buses and taxis who shared insight into this massive country. Hugs to Cassandra and daughters Magdalena and Genevieve for a warm homecoming.

Mara Vorhees

Moscow with one-year-old twins requires an extra set of thank-yous to everyone who helped the monkeys settle into life in the Russian capital. Our awesome babysitter tops that list – Спасибо дорогая Маша! My regular crew of Muscovite contacts was ever helpful, especially Tim O'Brien and Mirjana Vinsentin. Special thanks to Laura Bridge and Campbell Bethwaite for the 'local knowledge'. And a million kisses to Jerry, Shay and Van for coming along for the ride.
