Why Go?

Rivers don't come much more scenic than the Soča (pronounced so-cha). This aquamarine-coloured watercourse threads through the Soča Valley (Dolina Soče) from its source in the Julian Alps and gives rise to a smorgasbord of sights like gorges and waterfalls. Loads of activities get travellers up close to the natural splendour from busy centres like Bovec and Kobarid, where tour operators help adrenaline-seekers ride river rapids or paraglide from hillsides. But it doesn't have to be all high action: cycling and walking trails get you out among stunning panoramas.

As ever in this pocket-sized country, there's more to explore behind the scenes. There's rich history to delve into – particularly relating to WWI, when millions of troops fought on the mountainous battlefield here. Tucked away east of the Soča is a Unesco-recognised mercury-mining town, and small regions like Goriška Brda and the Vipava Valley enchant with idyllic landscapes and long wine-making traditions.

When to Go

Bovec

Feb–Mar See Cerkno's fascinating Laufarija Mardi Gras in the run-up to Lent.

May–Jun Meltwater swells the Soča River for the most dramatic white-water rafting.

Sep–Oct The grape harvest – ideal for wine and food touring in Goriška Brda and the Vipava Valley.
