

Eastern Mediterranean

Includes ➔

Alanya	386
Anamur	391
Taşucu	393
Silifke	394
Kızkalesi	396
Mersin (İçel)	401
Tarsus	402
Adana	403
İskenderun	408
Antakya (Hatay)	409

Best Places to Eat

- ➡ Hatay Sultan Sofrası (p413)
- ➡ İskelle Sofrası (p387)
- ➡ Öz Asmaaltı (p405)
- ➡ Çağlayan Restaurant (p413)

Best Places to Stay

- ➡ Hotel Bosnalı (p405)
- ➡ Centauera (p387)
- ➡ Liwan Hotel (p412)
- ➡ Hotel Eysa (p392)

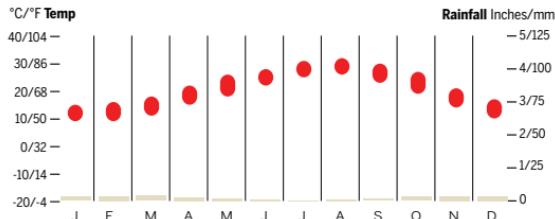

Why Go?

This is Turkey's non-airbrushed slice of Mediterranean coastline. A handful of distinctly local-style beach resorts lie between the industrial port cities. Crumbling ruins sit among acres of intensely farmed countryside with nary a tourist in sight. In the ancient towns of Tarsus and Antakya, atmospheric old-town fragments cling on amid the modern hubbub.

The southern Hatay province's fascinating melding of religions, languages and foods is reason enough for many to linger. For others, the wealth of important early Christian sites is the eastern Med's ace up its sleeve. The area's historical riches though encompass a dizzying timeline of kings and conquerors that stretches from Karatepe's late-Hittite remnants, through Roman Anemurium, to the cliff-top castles of once-mighty Cilicia. The stretch of the Mediterranean that most people miss is full of surprises for those that make the trip.

When to Go

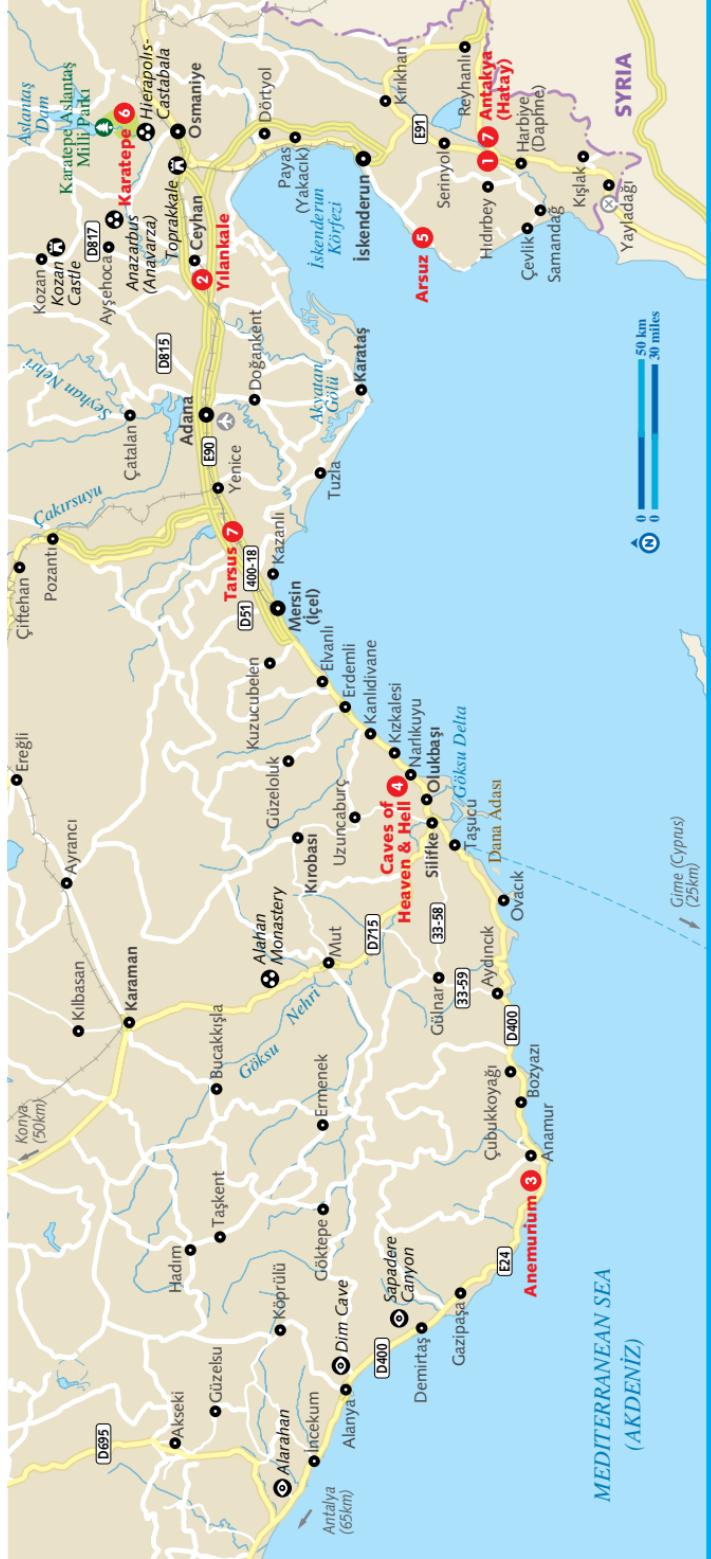

Antakya

Apr–May Munch on Anamur's bananas and strawberries during the spring harvest glut.

Jul–Aug Thermometers shoot sky-high and Turkish families hit Kızkalesi beach.

Oct Autumn is ideal for exploring Antakya's old town between cafe stops for syrupy künefe.

Eastern Mediterranean Highlights (AKDENİZ)

- ➊ Marvel at Roman and Byzantine artistry while surrounded by some of the world's finest mosaics at the Hatay Archaeology Museum (p410).
- ➋ Admire the stupendous view while sitting on the craggy, crumbling ramparts of Yalikale (p407).
- ➌ Explore the beautiful, remnants of Anemurium
- ➍ Descend into the massive chasm and then test out your vertigo over Hell at the Caves of Heaven and Hell (p400).
- ➎ Take a beach break in tiny Arsuz (p408).
- ➏ Swoop up on Hittite history amid the stone reliefs and statuary of Karatepe (p407).
- ➐ Soak up the ramshackle atmosphere of bygone days in the compact old centres of Tarsus (p402) and Antakya (p411).

(p391) with grazing cows and sheep your only company.

atmosphere of bygone days in the compact old centres of Tarsus (p402) and Antakya (p411).