THE AUTHORS

As well as contributing to the state and regional sections, several authors wrote the introductory and end matter sections of this book: Karla wrote The USA at a Glance, The USA By Theme and The Territories, Greg wrote the National Parks of the West road trip, Sara wrote the Route 66 and Highway 1 road trips, Gregor wrote the New England road trip, Tom wrote the Great River Road trip and Adam wrote the Blue Ridge Parkway road trip. Karla also coordinated the writing of this book.

KARLA ZIMMERMAN

When she's not home in Chicago watching baseball, er, writing for newspapers, books and magazines, Karla is traveling. The lifelong Midwesterner has been snowed on in Minnesota, stepped in pig doo in Indiana and watched sausage-racing in Wisconsin. Internationally she's traveled to more than 55 countries and published stories on Prague, Cape Verde and Vietnam, among others. She has coauthored several Lonely Planet guidebooks covering the USA, Canada and the Caribbean.

GREG BENCHWICK

Greg has rumbled in the jungles of South America, walked across Spain on the Camino de Santiago and challenged the spires, peaks and rivers of Colorado and Utah. He specializes in adventure and sustainable travel and has written more than a dozen guidebooks. When he's not on the road, Greg develops his new-media company www.monjomed.com.

SARA BENSON

Midwestern by birth and Californian by choice, Sara has traveled extensively to every state except Alaska – but she dreams of heeding the call of the Great White North just as soon as she can. An author of dozens of travel and nonfiction books, Sara has contributed to many Lonely Planet travel guides. She also works as a national park ranger.

GREGOR CLARK

Gregor Clark's love of travel and languages has taken him to 50 countries on five continents and to all 50 states. He developed an early fondness for New England, skating on frozen ponds in Washington Depot, CT, and seeing his first shooting star in Vermont's Green Mountains. Now a Vermont resident, Gregor has contributed to Lonely Planet's New England Trips as well as guides to Brazil, Portugal, Italy, Argentina and California.

TOM DOWNS

A native Californian, Tom has been traveling throughout the USA ever since he got his driver's license, and he has been writing about his journeys for more than a decade. His family roots drew him to the northern Plains, while blues, jazz, BBQ and sultry weather attracted him to the South. Once, during a month-long road trip, he traveled the entire length of the Mississippi, exploring each state that touched the great river.

JIM DUFRESNE

Jim has a passion for two things, sunsets and shoreline, the result of living his entire life in Alaska and Michigan, the two states with the most coastline. In Alaska, Jim was the first sportswriter to win a national award from Associated Press. In Michigan, Jim has never resided more than an hour's drive from a Great Lake. Jim's other Lonely Planet titles include Alaska and Hiking In Alaska.

LISA DUNFORD

Lisa learned to sign room-service bills early, as her father's hotel-industry career moved the family from Chicago to New York, Dallas, Pittsburgh... After college and a stint abroad she settled in south Texas and became a features department editor, writer and restaurant reviewer. Since turning freelance, Lisa has two-stepped across Texas, rock climbed in Utah and eaten far too much deep-dish pizza in Chicago for Lonely Planet.

ADAM KARLIN

Adam Karlin was born in Washington, DC, and raised on the banks of St Mary's River, MD. After graduating from college he worked at newspapers from Olympia, WA, to Key West, FL. Then Lonely Planet made the mistake of hiring him, sending him as far afield as the Andaman Islands and the Kenyan coast. Closer to home, he's written or contributed to several guidebooks on the Eastern seaboard, including Miami, Florida, Mid-Atlantic Trips, Washington, DC and other titles.

ALEX LEVITON

Californian by birth and Southern by homeownership since 2003, Alex lives part-time in a tobacco warehouse loft in Durham, NC. In 2008 she road tripped throughout her adopted region for The Carolinas, Georgia & the South Trips. She's spent over 20 years traveling throughout the Pacific Northwest with her brother Scott, who lives on a houseboat in Seattle's Lake Union.

ROBERT REID

Robert Reid is an American. Raised in Oklahoma, he's lived and worked all over the globe, including in Vietnam, London, Melbourne and Lonely Planet's sweet Oakland office. Since 2003 he's been based in Brooklyn, where he has updated 21 (and counting) Lonely Planet guidebooks and created his own free guidebook to Vietnam (www.reidontravel.com).

REGIS ST LOUIS

A Hoosier by birth, Regis grew up in a sleepy town where he dreamed of big journeys across America and beyond. After studying Russian in Moscow, he set out on a life of travel. He's crossed the USA by bus, train and automobile, and has traveled six continents. Regis has contributed to numerous Lonely Planet guides, including New York City, New England and USA. He lives in Brooklyn. Regis wrote Introducing the USA at the front of this book.
