Venice & the Veneto's Top 10

Basilica di San Marco (p50)

1 Early risers urge you to arrive when morning sunlight bathes millions of tesserae (mosaic tiles) with an other-worldly glow, and jaws drop to semi-precious-stone floors. Sunset romantics lobby you to linger in Piazza San Marco until fading sunlight shatters portal mosaics into golden shards, and the Caffè Florian house band strikes up the tango. Yet no matter how you look at it, the basilica is a marvel. Two eyes may seem insufficient to absorb 800 years of architecture and 8500 sq metres of mosaics – Basilica di San Marco will stretch your sense of wonder.

 San Marco

Palazzo Ducale (p53)

2 Other cities have government buildings; Venice has the Palazzo Ducale, a monumental propaganda campaign. To reach the halls of power, you must pass the Scala dei Censori (Stairs of the Censors) and Sansovino's staircase lined with 24-carat gold, then wait in a Palladio-designed hall facing Tiepolo's Venice Receiving Gifts of the Sea from Neptune. Veronese's Juno Bestowing her Gifts on Venice graces the trial chambers of the Consiglio dei Dieci (Council of Ten), Venice's CIA. Upstairs is the Piombi attic-prison, where Casanova was confined in 1756 until his escape.

Cruising Canals (p118)

3 Traffic never seemed so romantic as at sunset in Venice, when smooching echoes under the Ponte dei Sospiri (Bridge of Sighs) from passing gondolas. Venice's morning rush hour may lull you back to sleep with the gentle sounds of footsteps heading to the vaporetto (small passenger ferry) and oars slapping canal waters. Road rage is not an issue in a town with no actual roads but over 400 licensed gondolieri, who call 'Oooooooooeeel!' around blind corners to avoid collisions. Hop on board, or try your hand at the oar with Row Venice.

Tours

Tintoretto's Masterpieces (p90)

4 During Venice's darkest days of the Black Death, flashes of genius appeared. Tintoretto's loaded paintbrush streaks across stormy scenes inside the Scuola Grande di San Rocco like a lightning bolt, revealing glimmers of hope in the long shadow of the plague that reduced Venice's population by a third. Angelic rescue squads save lost souls until the very last minute of the master's Last Judgment in Chiesa della Madonna dell'Orto – as long as they hold back that teal tidal wave, even a lowly mortal might catch a glimpse of heaven on earth.

San Polo & Santa Croce, Cannaregio

Gallerie dell'Accademia (p73)

5 They've been censored and stolen, raised eyebrows and inspired generosity: all the fuss over Venetian paintings becomes clear at the Accademia. The Inquisition did not appreciate Venetian versions of biblical stories – especially Veronese's Last Supper, a wild dinner party of drunkards, dwarves, dogs, Turks and Germans alongside apostles. But Napoleon quite enjoyed Venetian paintings, warehousing them here as booty. Wars and floods took their toll, but international donations have restored Sala dell'Albergo's crowning glory: Titian's Presentation of the Virgin, where a young Madonna inspires Venetian merchants to help the needy.

Dorsoduro

Opera at Teatro La Fenice (p358)

6 Before the curtain rises, the drama has already begun at La Fenice. Wraps shed in lower-tier boxes reveal jewels, while in top loggie (balconies), loggione (opera critics) predict which singers will be in good voice, and which understudies may merit promotions. Meanwhile, architecture aficionados debate whether the theatre's faithful reconstruction after its 1996 arson attack was worth €90 million. But when the overture begins, all voices hush. No one wants to miss a note of performances that could match premieres here by Stravinsky, Rossini, Prokofiev and Britten.

★ San Marco

Padua's Scrovegni Chapel (p163)

7 Squint a little at Giotto's 1303–05 Cappella degli Scrovegni frescoes, and you can see the Renaissance coming. Instead of bug-eyed Byzantine saints, Giotto's biblical characters evoke people you'd recognise today: a middle-aged mother (Anne) with a miracle baby (Mary), a new father (Joseph) nodding off while watching his baby boy (Jesus), a slippery schemer (Judas) breezily air-kissing a trusting friend (Jesus). Giotto captures human nature in all its flawed and complex beauty, making a detour to elegant, erudite Padua well worth the effort.

La Biennale di Venezia (p39)

8 When Venice dared the world to show off its modern masterpieces, delegations from Australia to Venezuela accepted the challenge – who turns down an invitation to Venice? Today La Biennale di Venezia is the world's most prestigious creative showcase, featuring art (in odd-numbered years) and architecture (in even-numbered years), and organising the Venice International Film Festival and performing-arts extravaganzas annually. Friendly competition among nationals is obvious in the Giardini's pavilions, which showcase architectural sensibilities ranging from magical thinking (Austro-Hungary) to repurposed industrial cool (Korea). Venetian Artisans (p41)

9 In Venice, you're not just in good hands – you're in highly skilled ones. As has been done for centuries, artisans here ply esoteric trades, those that don't involve a computer mouse, such as glass-blowing, paper-marbling and oarlock-carving. Yet while other craft traditions have fossilised into relics of bygone eras, Venetian artisans have kept their creations current. A modern Murano-glass chandelier morphs into an intergalactic octopus, marbled paper turns into must-have handbags, and oarlocks custom-made for rock-and-roll legends are mantelpiece sculptures that upstage any marble bust.

Veneto Wines (p171)

10 Toast your arrival in Venice with sprightly prosecco, but don't stop there: the Veneto is overflowing with oenological delights. Head north to Valdobbiadene and Conegliano to explore the very home of Venice's best-loved sparkling white, and pit-stop in Bassano del Grappa for a mouthful of fiery grappa. Save space in the cellar for structured whites in Soave, and fall in love with brooding Amarones and rebel Valpolicellas northwest of Verona. For something completely different, sniff, swill and sip at Verona's ViniVeri, Italy's natural-process wine showcase.

Our Story

A beat-up old car, a few dollars in the pocket and a sense of adventure. In 1972 that's all Tony and Maureen Wheeler needed for the trip of a lifetime – across Europe and Asia overland to Australia. It took several months, and at the end – broke but inspired – they sat at their kitchen table writing and stapling together their first travel guide, Across Asia on the Cheap. Within a week they'd sold 1500 copies. Lonely Planet was born.

Today, Lonely Planet has offices in Franklin, London, Melbourne, Oakland, Dublin, Beijing and Delhi, with more than 600 staff and writers. We share Tony's belief that 'a great guidebook should do three things: inform, educate and amuse'.

Our Writers

Paula Hardy

Dorsoduro, San Polo & Santa Croce Paula Hardy is an independent travel writer and editorial consultant, whose work for Lonely Planet and other flagship publications has taken her from nomadic camps in the Danakil Depression to Seychellois beach huts and the jewel-like bar at the Gritti Palace on the Grand Canal. Over two decades, she has authored more than 30 Lonely Planet guidebooks and spent five years as commissioning editor of Lonely Planet's bestselling

Italian list. These days you'll find her hunting down new hotels, hip bars and up-and-coming artisans primarily in Milan, Venice and Marrakesh. Get in touch at www.paulahardy.com. Paula also wrote the Venice Today and The Fragile Lagoon chapters, along with the Plan Your Trip and Survival Guide sections.

Peter Dragicevich

San Marco; Cannaregio; Castello; Giudecca, Lido & the Southern Islands; Murano, Burano & the Northern Islands After a successful career in niche newspaper and magazine publishing, both in his native New Zealand and in Australia, Peter finally gave into Kiwi wanderlust, giving up staff jobs to chase his diverse roots around much of Europe. Over the last decade he's written literally dozens of guidebooks for Lonely Planet on an oddly disparate collection of countries, all of which he's come to love. He once again calls Auckland, New Zealand his home – although his current nomadic existence means he's often elsewhere. Peter also wrote the History, Architecture and The Arts chapters.

Marc Di Duca

Day Trips from Venice A travel author for the last decade, Marc has worked for Lonely Planet in Siberia, Slovakia, Bavaria, England, Ukraine, Austria, Poland, Croatia, Portugal, Madeira and on the Trans-Siberian Railway, as well as writing and updating tens of other guides for other publishers. When not on the road, Marc lives between Sandwich, Kent and Mariánské Lázně in the Czech Republic with his wife and two sons.
