Explore Sestiere di Cannaregio

Ignore the Ferrovia signs trying to rush you through Cannaregio, and detour behind the Rialto to tiny, splendid Chiesa di Santa Maria dei Miracoli. Wander up to Fondamenta Nuove, and turn the corner to glimpse bombastic, baroque I Gesuiti. Follow aptly named Fondamenta Zen and misnomer Fondamenta della Misericordia towards Campo dei Mori and Madonna dell'Orto, bedecked with Tintoretto masterpieces. Break for a stellar lunch at Anice Stellato, followed by a fascinating tour of historic Ghetto synagogues. Browse poetry, antiques and Ikona Gallery in the Ghetto before hitting the Cannaregio cicchetti circuit: Al Timon, La Cantina and Alla Vedova.

Local Life

- ➡ Shopping secrets Campo Santa Maria Nova hosts a monthly weekend outdoor antiques market, Mercanto dei Miracolo (⌚9am-5pm), from spring to autumn, but you'll also find artisans, fashion, gifts and books galore in this Cannaregio corner.
- ➡ Beer here Thirsty sightseers craving a proper pint will find Venice's best brews at La Cantina (p132), Agli Ormesini (p134) and Il Santo Bevitore (p133).
- ➡ Good and loud Cannaregio's timeless calm is broken at night by modern music acts at Al Timon (p133), Al Parlamento (p133), Paradiso Perduto (p134) and Teatro Fondamenta Nuove (p134).

Getting Around

- ➡ Vaporetto After the busy Ferrovia stop, there are two more Grand Canal stops in Cannaregio: San Marcuola (lines 1, 82 and N) and Ca' d'Oro (1 and N). Lines 41, 42, 51 and 52 head from Ferrovia into the Canale di Cannaregio and onwards to Fondamenta Nuove. Ferries head from Fondamenta Nuove to the northern islands, including San Michele, Murano, Burano, Le Vignole and Sant'Erasmo.

Lonely Planet's Top Tip

Napoleon created the wide pedestrian boulevard that links the train station to the Rialto, and it's a lot like a highway, with rush-hour pedestrian traffic, fast food and chain stores. But one of Venice's most scenic walks runs parallel to it, along the sunny fondamente (canal bank) running north of the Ghetto and along the lagoon on the Fondamenta Nuove.
