

Upper West Side & Central Park

Home to the premier performing arts center and the park that helps define the city.

Upper East Side

High-end boutiques, sophisticated mansions and Museum Mile – one of the most cultured strips in the world.

Midtown

Times Square, Broadway theaters, canyons of skyscrapers, and bustling crowds that rarely thin.

Greenwich Village, Chelsea & Meatpacking District

Quaint, intimate streets plus trendy nightlife, shopping and art galleries galore.

SoHo & Chinatown

Soup dumpling parlors and hawkers selling bric-a-brac next door to cobblestone streets and stores with the biggest name brands in the world.

Union Square, Flatiron District & Gramercy

A bustling, vibrant park binds surrounding areas filled with good eats.

East Village & Lower East Side

Two of the city's hottest 'hoods that lure students, bankers and scruffier types alike.

Lower Manhattan & the Financial District

Iconic monuments, riverfront access and Wall St mingle at the island's southern end.

Brooklyn

These days, the name is shorthand for 'artsy cool' the world over, but there's far more here than hipster stereotypes.
