WUKALINA WALK

Learn the stories of Tasmanian Aboriginals during a multi-day hike in their cultural homelands. Learn how to identify bush tucker and survive a bush (fern) lunch.

Known for its sandy beaches and granite headlands, impossibly clear turquoise water and一遍的 marine biodiversity, the Wukalina Walk is one of the world’s great walks, offering a unique insight into the traditional custodians of the region.

Launched in 2018, the Wukalina Walk is Tasmania’s first Elders Council of Tasmania – owned and operated guided walk. The first time people have had the chance to tell their story, on their own land, and in their own way. You’ll hike the 34km trail in 4 days, with somewhere to stay every night.

ON YOUR DOORSTEP

For add-on cost to your Wukalina Aboriginal hike, don’t miss ‘The First Tasmanians’ exhibition at the Queen Victoria Art Gallery in Launceston, which features over 7000 original objects and artwork, close-up stereoscopy, animation, and stories of Creators, craft, and more.

The Plastic Problem

Today is the perfect time for a change - Are you up for the challenge?

Look around you – plastic is everywhere! It’s in your shoes, pens, toothbrush, car, toys, TV, water bottles, food packaging... It’s so popular that it’s almost impossible to get through one day without using it. And it’s creating major problems for our planet, wildlife and ourselves.

Inside this practical guide, the follow-up to our popular 101 Small Ways to Save the World, you’ll discover loads of brilliant and easy ways to cut plastic out of your life! By becoming a ‘plastic patroller’ instead of a plastic polluter, your actions, however small, can make a big difference every day. And with each change, you’ll help our oceans become a little cleaner and our planet a little healthier.

In Your Bedroom

Right now your room is probably filled with plastic—but it doesn’t have to be. Here are some simple ideas for more environmentally friendly alternatives. Take a look!

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>1</th>
<th>TRY AVOID PLASTIC TOYS</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cutting down on the number of toys you own is better for the environment. Instead of asking for or giving plastic toys every birthday and holiday, consider alternatives. Here are some gift ideas to give or ask for:</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Gifts can be an ice cream shop
- A membership to the zoo or aquarium
- Tickets to a show, concert, or museum
- Supplies or equipment for a hobby
- Gift certificates for make-believe tickets and popcorn

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>2</th>
<th>BUY USED TOYS OR BORROW THEM</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Then there’s plastic toys if you really have your sights set on, see if you can buy a second hand. No doubt can help you find what you’re looking for at a resale shop, yard sale, or online message boards. Maybe you can even barter responsibly for them!</td>
<td></td>

Recycling Plastic Isn’t Easy

“Reduce, reuse, recycle” is a common slogan used to encourage people to help the planet. But when it comes to plastic, “reduce, reuse, and refuse” is a better mantra.

- Unfortunately, some plastic is used with single-use and other items, like plastic toys or that are built-in with food scraps. For food storage and containers often used, it can’t be recycled anymore. It’s just too hard to separate the non-recyclable stuff from the recyclable stuff.

The Big Picture

- In order to keep plastic recycling material, pure and clean, recycling programs have to stay very organized and focused. This means some items that are more difficult to recycle (like plastic bags, which can easily get caught up in and block recycling machines), can’t be placed in recycling bins for pickup. Instead, families have to bring them to a special center. That way, it’s unlikely that people will get out of their way to recycle. Instead, those kinds of items often end up in the trash.
