A Place Called Home
WRITTEN BY KATE BAKER · ILLUSTRATED BY REBECCA GREEN

Open doors, peep through windows and discover how people live in different homes around the world. Explore city apartments, floating barges and jungle houses built on stilts. Step inside a Maasai mud hut, climb aboard a space station, and much more! Rebecca Green’s beautiful illustrations are filled with fun details, helping to bring these miniature worlds to life. With flaps to lift and facts to uncover on every page, A Place Called Home is a playful introduction to diverse dwellings around the globe.

• A fun way to find out about different people & communities
• Encourages kids to be curious about our diverse world
Some people live in the middle of the jungle. Their homes are raised from the ground on stilts to help protect them from forest creatures and to keep them dry in the rainy season, when the river rises and floods the land.

This village is in the Amazon rainforest in Brazil. It is a long way from the nearest town, so the people get most of what they need from the forest.

They build their homes using jungle vines and wood. They fish in the river and instead of cars, they travel by boat.

Some people live in wooden houses surrounded by snow. They wrap up in warm clothes and use sleds to slide across the ice, then hurry back inside their cozy homes.

This tiny town in Greenland is home to the Inuit people. Reindeer and polar bears live nearby and giant whales swim under the frozen sea.

Husky dogs with thick fur help to herd reindeer and pull sleds across the snow.

Don’t forget to take off your snowy boots before you go inside!

EACH PAGE FEATURES FLAPS TO LIFT AND PEEK INSIDE!
